

Riot and Murders in Philadelphia!

in the city. They are now in front of St. Augustine's church in Fourth street, and threaten to burn it. It is now 8 o'clock, p. m., the people in the neighborhood of the church are moving out of their houses. I understand the mob is now led on by a young man whose brother was killed yesterday. An Irishman was captured in a house, while in the act of loading a gun, and badly beaten by the mob; several attempts were made to hang him, but he was at last taken to the watch house alive.

One of the military was shot by accident. The Mayor has just issued a proclamation for the putting down of the mob. The Catholics hold a meeting to-night in Penn. Square, but for what purpose I am unable to say. Nearly all kinds of business is suspended. Half past 9.—The State House bell is ringing, and the cry of fire is being raised through Chestnut street. The streets are scarcely passable for the crowds that are moving to and fro. The fire is in Kensington. A fireman named Charles Stevel has been shot dead. The mob is still increasing—another person has been shot down dead. I could not learn his name. Ten o'clock.—The fire is still raging; the whole city is in an uproar; no telling where or when it will end. I have just been informed that about 500 Native Americans have arrived this evening by the New York train of cars.

Quarter past 10.—St. Augustine's church is on fire; and now at 11, it is burned to the ground, and the fire still raging in the neighborhood; and the lights now to be seen, from the various fires, present an awful spectacle. Mothers with their children in their arms, are running through the streets crying for mercy. The mob now talk of going to St. Mary's church to burn it down. The people generally are afraid to walk the streets, not knowing what moment they might be shot down; all are in a state of fear and excitement. I will not be able to get full statements of the damage done, as the mail closes in a few minutes; but what I have given, you can depend upon as being correct in every particular.

ANECDOTE.

A rule that won't work both ways.—Squire S., of our village, has a very sagacious dog. He sits up like a man in a chair, allows you to put a hat upon his head and a cigar in his mouth, and if any by-stander chances to give him a tip or a levy, the dog's owner is the only person who can get it from him again.

Western Reporter.
A remarkably sagacious animal, truly, but not so good a financier as the elephant we have heard of, who took in money on very special deposits.

"That's a very knowing animal of yours, is he?" said a cockney gentleman to the keeper of the elephant in question.

"Very," was the cool rejoinder. "He performs strange tricks and hanties, does he?" inquired the cockney, eyeing the animal through his glass.

"Surprisin'" retorted the keeper—"we've learnt him to put money in that box you see way up there. Try him with a dollar." [The cockney handed the elephant a dollar, and sure enough he took it in his trunk and placed it in a box high up out of reach.]

"Well, that is very extraordinary hantishin' truly!" said the green one opening his eyes. "Now let's see him take it out and it back."

"We never learnt him that trick," retorted the keeper, with a roguish leer, and then turned away to stir up the monkeys and punch the hyenas.—[N. Orleans Picayune.]

"Stop thief—stop thief!" cried out a fat, phlegmatic looking little man, yesterday, pointing to a fellow who was hurrying down Chartres street at the bent of his speed, and having a gold mounted cane in his hand.

"What's the mat-aw?" said a dandy, putting his glass to his eye, and calmly looking after the running customer.

"Stop thief—stop thief!" shouted the little man again—"he has run off with my gold-mounted cane."

"Aw, dem'ne!" said the dandy, "if the almanac is not right after all; I remember it says—April 12th, look out for a hurry-cane; so you had better look out for yours, old boy."

N. O. Picayune.

A good guess.—Col. C., who was over head and ears in debt, when stationed at the Tower, was told by his servant that a person wanted to see him on particular business. Requiring a description of his visitor, the reply was, "A man of color."
"Oh, say no more," said the colonel, "I know what color—it is a dun."

Sharp and Witty.—A husband in Philadelphia advertises his wife, and that he will pay no debts of her contracting. The amiable dear replies that the people need not be alarmed, as he never pays no debts of any kind.

The New Mirror.

EDITED BY GEORGE P. MORRIS

ILLUSTRATED BY J. G. CHAPMAN—EVERY NUMBER EMBELLISHED WITH AN EXQUISITE DESIGN ON STEEL.—Terms, $3 per annum—single No. 61 cents.
In the course of a few weeks, the undersigned will commence, on his own account, the publication of a new series of the New York Mirror, in the octavo form, on an entirely novel and original plan, with Steel Engravings in every number, and at the reduced price of $3 per annum, or 6 cents for a single copy.

The New Mirror will appear with many strange and attractive features, distinguishing it from every other periodical. It will be published with new type, on fine paper, and each number will contain a beautiful engraving on steel, designed and sketched by Chapman, illustrating the letter press which it accompanies, and which it will invest with peculiar interest. Besides the contributions of all our corps of correspondents—which embraces the most of the talent of this country—we have made arrangements for fresh and early translations from some of the best writers of France, and for proof sheets from several of the popular authors of England. With such materials, and with such able fellow-laborers in the literary vineyard, we hope to present to the American reader a weekly journal of great value and unusual excellence. The parade of mere names will be sedulously avoided.—The Mirror will be remarkable, we hope, for good articles without names. It will embrace within its scope every department of elegant literature, comprising tales of romance, sketches of society and manners, sentiment, and every day life, piquant essays, domestic and foreign correspondence, literary intelligence, wit and humour, fashion and gossip, poetry, the fine arts, and literary, musical and dramatic criticisms. Its reviews of new works will be careful, discriminating and impartial. It will aim to foster a literature suited to the taste and desires of the country. Its tendency will be cheerful and enlivening, as improving. It will seek to gratify every refined taste, but never to offend the most fastidious; and it will ever feel its duty to be, to "turn the sunny side of things to human eyes."

The work will be published every Saturday, in numbers of sixteen large super-royal pages, with double columns, and enclosed in a neat ornamental cover. It will form, at the end of the year, two superb volumes, each of four hundred and sixteen pages, filled with gems of literature and the fine arts.

The very low price at which it will be issued, renders it the cheapest periodical in this or any other country, considering the cost and beauty of its FIFTY-TWO ENGRAVINGS, and the intrinsic value of its literary contents. Those desirous of receiving the paper from its commencement, will have it punctually sent to their address upon forwarding to the undersigned, at No. 4 Ann street, New York, three dollars free of expense. Letters enclosing the amount of subscription, may be franked by all postmasters. Agents, carriers, and newsmen, will be supplied on the usual terms.

The cash system will be rigidly adhered to without any deviation whatever.

Such Editors as copy the above, will oblige me by forwarding a marked paper and by resuming the exchange, which was interrupted, much to my regret, by circumstances over which I had no control.

Hewes' Fever & Ague Tonic,

Superior to any thing now in use.

THIS MEDICINE has lately been introduced into the country, and its effects are wonderful. The severest cases of Fever and Ague, can be, and have been, cured by a single dose of my Medicine. I have no patent for it, the recipe came from my ancestors, like some other ancient medicines, the recipe has once been lost but I have now a copy of the original, which is a certain and radical cure, it is harmless in its effects, and the health of the patient is always improved by its use—it invigorates and strengthens the whole system, and may also be prescribed with decided advantage in all derangements of the stomach and digestive organs, it may be taken in any state of the system, either during the presence or absence of fever, and I will warrant effectual cure.

I challenge any Physician, or patient medicine, to test with mine in curing the ague and fever. For further recommendation, I would respectfully call the attention of all to the following certificates, I could produce many more, but the medicine, if tried, will always be sufficient to recommend itself. Price $100 per Bottle. Enquire of Mr. S. Kem, or Maj. Oury, at Bowling Green. Warranted in all cases to cure.

J. V. HEWES.
THIS is to certify that I have tried Mr. Hewes' Medicine, and found it superior to any medicine of the kind which I have ever used—it has effectually cured me and five of my family of the ague and fever.

Some time during last fall, three of my family suffered under this disease, I tried almost all patent medicines for their relief, but all to no purpose—having been prevailed upon to try Mr. Hewes' medicine I did so, and to my astonishment, a single dose to each, entirely broke their ague and fever, which has not returned. I had also a man under my employ, who had the ague, and tried different medicines, he succeeded several times in breaking it, but it would again return, he also took some of H's. medicine, which resulted in effectual cure. I have also had it myself, and one dose of it cured me effectually and permanently.

I would happily recommend this medicine to all those who have the ague and fever, as I have by experience, found it an excellent remedy, and in my opinion, it is fully deserving of public notice.

JOHN BURNETT.
Louisiana, Feb. 5th, 1844.

I have also taken Mr. Hewes' Medicine, and it proved effectual in curing me—I had the ague and fever fully six months, and took medicine under the direction of a skillful Physician, and other persons, but all to no purpose. Having heard of the wonderful effects of Mr. H's. medicine, I applied to him, and to my astonishment, one bottle of it entirely cured me. When I got the medicine, my face was bloated, and my appetite was entirely gone, I also suffered from a severe pain in my bowels, after taking one dose of his medicine, I found my appetite gradually returning, and my bowels ceased to pain me, and since I have taken one bottle of it, I have had no more symptoms of the fever and ague, my whole system has been entirely renovated, and I find my health rapidly improving.

I would heartily recommend it to all those who are suffering with this disagreeable disease; and I would further state, that all those who will try it, will find it deserving all the eulogy which I have given it.

AARON ZIEGLER.

February 1st, 1844.

LOUISIANA, Mo., Feb. 7th, '44

I do hereby certify that I have tried J. V. Hewes' ague and fever medicine, and believe it to be the best medicine that can be produced, it has effectually cured me, often trying many other medicines, and I would recommend it to the public in general.

G. FINLY.

I have appointed Maj. AUG. OURY, my sole agent to prepare, sell, and administer my medicine, which will be effectual in all cases of fever and ague in its most malignant forms.—The medicine is entirely vegetable, without emetic or cathartic properties, and may be used with perfect safety in all forms of the disease.—From my own experience, as well as that of my ancestors, in the practice of my medicine, I have no hesitation in saying it is more beneficial than any other now in use. I therefore solicit a trial from those afflicted with Fever and Ague. No cure, no pay!—The genuine medicine can be procured only from Maj. Oury, or myself.
